Whole Number 700

FOR NATION-WIDE PROHIBITION

Text of Joint Resolution Adopted by the United States Senate, August 1, 1917

As adopted the resolution, which was submitted by Senator Sheppard of Texas, democrat, would add the following article to the Federal constitution:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled (two-thirds of each house concurring therein) that the following amendment to the constitution be and hereby is proposed to the states, to become valid as a part of the constitution when ratified by the legislatures of the several states as provided by the constitution.

Article Section 1 The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes, is prohibited.

Section 2 This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by the legislatures of the several states as provided in the constitution within six years from the date of the submission thereof to the states by the congress

Section 3 The congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

Resisting the Draft

The number of those resisting the draft is fortunately, very few. There should be none. Some are conscientiously opposed to war, any war, and may prefer to submit to any punishment the government sees fit to inflict rather than to take up arms, but even such men do not justify resistance or the giving of encouragement to those who do resist. Still, we are impatient to draw to those who, while making sympathetic attempt to DRAFT, are engaged in possible counter plans. War is a fact, not a mere ideal, a reality, not a speculation that it will render the world a better or more peaceful place. It may be necessary to fight a world war. If any conscientious people are ready to resist, they are ready to give up their lives. There is no room for any conscientious objectors in the government or in the front lines.

...The fact is, however, that the government has the right to draft men, and it has the right to punish those who resist. It is the duty of every citizen to obey the law. ...

W. J. BRYAN

...If the government is to be successful in its war, it must have the cooperation of all its citizens. ...

REFERENCE - NOT TO BE TAKEN FROM THIS ROOM

...giving major power to the executive, but not too large. The conditions are extraordinary, and the President must fit the conditions. The President ought to have power to protect all the people from the greed of any unpatriotic few.

And the nature rule ought to be so drafted as to give the majority the right to close debate. This right should exist in the majority at all times, but it is especially necessary during the war, when the debate action may become necessary at any time.

If the war keeps up with longer Germany will run completely out of natural resources to the point of declaring war upon us.

Abusing Free Speech

Before our nation enters a war it is perfectly proper to discuss the wisdom of going to war, but the discussion is closed when congress acts. After that, no one should be permitted to cloak attacks upon his government or aid to the enemy under the name of his exercising freedom of speech. No assembly, therefore, will be wasted upon those who have been arrested for unpatriotic literature. That abuses free speech. And the abuses by members of the House as well as by attacks upon the United States. We can no longer have a free press in a country that we can afford to be crushed. ...

CRUEL TO SEPARATE THEM

Separate the brewery and the distillery? No, it would be cruel. They have been partners in crime for a generation — they have been co-conspirators against all that is high and holy. Let them die together and be buried in the same grave.

Whether Common or Not

IDE TO A COLD STORAGE Egg

One day he died, and when he was buried, the people of the town were so sad that they buried him in a cold storage egg. When they found out that he was buried in a cold storage egg, they were so angry that they buried the cold storage egg in a cold storage egg. When they found out that the cold storage egg was buried in a cold storage egg, they were so angry that they buried the cold storage egg in a cold storage egg. When they found out that the cold storage egg was buried in a cold storage egg, they were so angry that they buried the cold storage egg in a cold storage egg.

An Unhappy Inference

A street assistant, engaged in reading the notices at the public library, was annoyed by an elderly lady who sat down at a window and said that she was reading the last of Laura Jean Libby's writings and that she would like some one to read it to her.

"The young assistant, unable for the moment to take of Laura Jean Libby's equal, hastily scanned the shelf on which she was working and choosing a book, offered it to the applicant, saying, 'Perhaps you would like this, 'A Kentucky Cardinal.'"

"No," was the reply, "I don't care for theological works."

"But," explained the kindly assistant, with needless enthusiasm, "this cardinal was a bird!"

"That would not recommend him to me," said the woman, as she moved away in search of a librarian who should be a better judge of character as well as of Laura Jean Libby's peers. —Harper's

Exceptional Circumstances

The sympathetic prison visitor went from cell to cell interviewing the inmates. To one penitent-looking individual she put the usual question: "What brought you here?"

"Borrowing money, lady?" was the reply.

"But, good gracious!" she exclaimed, "they don't put people in prison for borrowing."

"Not ordinarily," she replied, "but I had to knock a fellow down three or four times before he would lend it to me." —Exchange.

Making It All Right

An old lady who had been introduced to a doctor who was also a professor in a university, felt somewhat puzzled as to how she would address the great man.

"Shall I call you 'doctor' or 'professor'?" she asked.

"Oh! just as you wish," was the reply; "as a matter of fact, some people call me an old idiot."

"Indeed!" she said, sweetly, "but then, they are people that know you." —Tit-Bits.

For the Future

A boy in a Chicago school refused to sew, evidently considering it beneath the dignity of a 10-year-old man.

"George Washington sewed," said

Not What He Wanted

Two men were talking together in a room.

"I want a new suit," he turned to the other man.

The latter at once produced a box of buttons which he handed to him with the remark:

"Here are the buttons you very much wanted."

"Oh, no, away from it!" retorted the son of Sueton, exclaiming, "I don't want you that's years march worn! I have plenty of them at home!" —London Answers.

True Pleasure

"Major Kasher, I saw a man to day who would like the pleasure of kicking you," said a friend.

"Kicking me?" exclaimed the major. "Kicking me! Give me his name at once!"

"I hardly like to tell you," said the other.

"I insist upon knowing," said the major.

"Ah, well, I'll tell you," said the other. "It's a soldier who's in the hospital with both legs off." —Tit-Bits.

Astute

"I found such a wonderful bargain," said Mrs. Flatter.

"What was it?" asked her husband, a dealer in Back Bay.

"You know," said she, "I went down to buy a hat, and just as I got in the store they put up a sign, 'All hats at half price.'"

"So you only had to spend half of the money you intended?"

"Oh, no, I bought two hats instead of one." —Chicago Herald.

A Dependable Guide

Friend—"What is the first thing you do when a man presents himself to you for consultation?"

Doctor—"I ask him if he has a car."

Friend—"What do you learn from that?"

Doctor—"If he has one, I know he is wealthy—and if he hasn't, I know he is healthy." —Buffalo Courier.

Modern Thrift

"Are you saving up anything for a rainy day?" asked the thrifty citizen.

"Yes," replied Mr. Chuggins. "In a little while I expect to have enough to buy a brand-new top for my automobile." —Chicago Herald.

Originally

Kind Friend (to composer who has just played his newly written revue masterpiece)—"Yes, I've always liked that little thing. Now play one of your own, won't you?" —London Opinion.

Costly Error

"Hey, what did you go and sell them apples for?"

"Ain't they for sale?"

"No. Them was samples we take out to our automobile customers." —Louisville Courier-Journal.

Hollow Hopes

"Never despair. Somewhere beyond the clouds the sun is shining."

"Yes, and somewhere below the

The Learned

"I have written a book," said the learned man to his friend.

"What is it about?"

"It is about the history of the world."

"What is the title?"

"The History of the World."

"What is the subject?"

"The subject is the history of the world."

Pointed Paragraphs

Figures may not lie, but estimates are often misleading.

Very often the price of liberty is $10 or ten days.

The world seldom speaks well of a man who is dead broke.

And some women haters are floor-walkers in department stores.

Man a man sells away money in the brine of other people's tears — Chicago News.

PRESIDENT AROUSED BY DUNNICATION OF GUARD

An Associated Press despatch follows: Washington, Jan. 25.—President Wilson, striking today to a delegation from the Mary and League for National Defense, which attacked the national guard and advocated universal military training, rebuked them for their "unrestrained language" and said they would have a better chance for his support if they were more reasonable in their attitude.

The memorial read to the President spoke of the national guard system as a "disgrace" and a "failure." It urged universal compulsory military training and service and mentioned the mobilization of the national guard along the Mexican border as an example of "the failure of the system."

President Wilson told the delegation that their attitude posed the opportunity for discussion of the question and was not helpful.

The President, discussing compulsory military service, declared that unquestionably physical training was needed and would accomplish a great deal, "but it can be had without compulsory military service."

He added that he was desirous of doing the wise thing and that the entire subject was receiving his most earnest consideration. He vigorously defended the efforts being made in congress to build up a proper military service.

"I do not need to prove to you or anybody my deep interest in this subject," said the President. "I will frankly say to you I would have been more impressed by the memorial if it had been expressed in more restrained language. From some of the unqualified statements in this paper, I must frankly dissent."

The memorial which aroused the

INDIVIDUALS

Student arrivals at the end of August set Bryan Hill alive with a flurry of activity. New students no doubt had hopes of "conquering the campus;" but endless mountains of forms, tests, and books temper their initial enthusiasm.

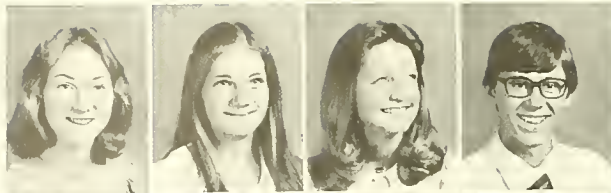

ARRIVAL AND REGISTRATION

While the new students slave over tests, returning students spend time with more enjoyable activities—comparing summer events and anticipating the year ahead.

HELPING HANDS

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might . . ."

—Ecclesiastes 9:10a

Mrs. Inez Neumann,
Part-time Clerk
Mrs. Virginia Schickl,
Sec. to V. Pres.
Mrs. Eleanor Steele,
Sec. in Admin. Support
Services
Mrs. Betty Wynsema,
Sec. to Pres.

Special thanks must go to Dr. Cornelius' creative writing class, all of whom helped by reporting copy for the book. These class members especially deserve recognition:

John Mazunik
Jill Heisler
Linda Miller
Fran North
Janet Fowler
Ed Jackson

Several COMMONER staff members really helped with quotes too—John Shalanko on sports, and John Mazunik on various quotes.

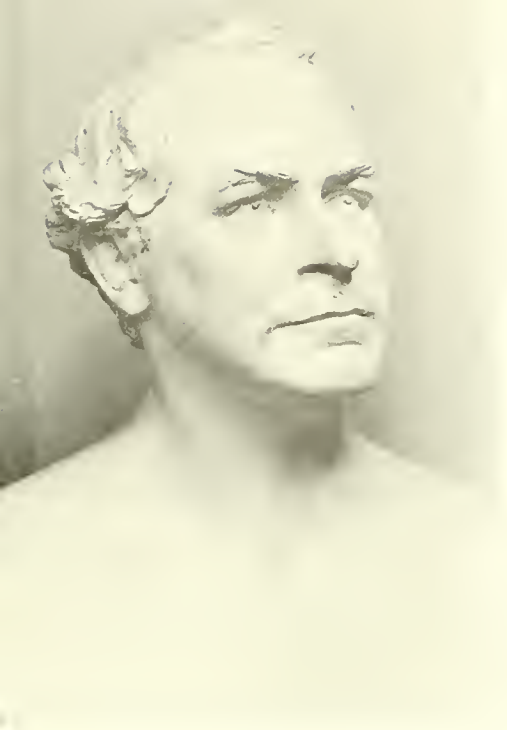

Coen Gilmore proved to be of tremendous value at the end of the school year—by running around and taking last-minute photos.

Mr. Robinson deserves appreciation for his great patience with the procrastinating staff.

Diligent Miss Brynoff took time to review all copy—looking at each comma and word.

And Sandy Williams, our yearbook representative, kept us all smiling with his cheery attitude.

1977 STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL SWEEPSTAKES WINNING FLOAT

It was 30 years ago in Robinson's in Dayton that F. E. Robinson persuaded a group of Daytonians to have an annual Strawberry Festival. From that humble beginning the Festival has grown and now attracts tens of thousands to Dayton in May for a full week of activities. It is fitting that Mrs. Mildred Beard should design and create a prize winning parade float on the 30th anniversary of the Festival.

Similarly, it was in Robinson's in Dayton that the famous Scopes Evolution Trial should have had its beginnings. And it was also in Robinson's that the idea of a college honoring William Jennings Bryan took shape, and F. E. Robinson served as chief fund raiser, benefactor, and booster of the college until he died in 1957. He served as first chairman of the Board of Trustees, a position he held for more than 25 years.

TODAY . . . as it has been since the turn of the century . . . things happen at Robinson's.

Dear Students and Faculty:

I have been honored to have had the opportunity to publish this edition of the Commoner. We at Herff-Jones Yearbooks believe this is the finest Bryan College publication to date. To all of the Commoner staff we say, "Job well done."

Best of luck,

Sandy

A body has no spare parts.

In Romans 12 and 1 Corinthians 12, Paul writes that we are all parts of Christ's body. And each of us has a calling—a unique role to play in God's plan. We're dependent on each other, too, just as our bodies depend on our eyes for sight, and our ears for hearing.

The education you have received has helped prepare you for a life of service, whether as a full-time Christian worker or in business, education or industry. You share in an urgent task. A hurting, hungry, dying world needs the very thing you have to give.

We at World Wide Pictures, the Billy Graham film ministry, want to assure you of our prayers. We ask God to lead you, to support you, to give you strength to serve.

You don't punch out when you graduate. You punch in. Because you're not a spare part. The body—the fellowship of Christ's followers—needs you.
